Text A

Ibn Bassal was a writer, a scientist and an engineer who lived in Al-Andalus in the eleventh century CE. He worked in the court of Al-Ma'mun, who was the king of Toledo. His great passions were botany, which is the study of plants, and agriculture. Although he was a great scholar, he was also a practical man and all of his writing came from his own 'hands-on' experience of working the land.

One of the many things which Ibn Bassal achieved was A Book of Agriculture. The book consisted of sixteen chapters which explain how best to grow trees, fruit and vegetables, as well as herbs and sweet-smelling flowers; perhaps the most famous chapter of all was the one that describes how to treat different types of soil. Ibn Bassal also worked out how to irrigate the land by finding underground water and digging wells. He designed water pumps and irrigation systems. All of these things were passed on through his writing.

The influence of Ibn Bassal's book was enormous. As farmers down the generations followed his instructions and advice, the land became wonderfully fertile and produced more than enough food for the fast-growing population. The irrigation systems that he and his followers put in place are still in evidence in Spain. Although his name is not widely known, Ibn Bassal's legacy to the world has been great.

- 2) Ibn Bassal was a polymath. Write down two examples of his areas of knowledge.

- 4) What does the underlined pronoun "which" refer to?
- 5) Quote the sentence which contains the title of Ibn Bassal's book.
- 6) Quote the sentence which states the two things that were designed by Ibn Bassal.
- 7) Find a word in the text which means "what someone leaves to the world after his death".

Text B

In England, almost 50% of school leavers go on to higher education. The figure has not always been as high as this. Twenty years ago, it was closer to 30%, and thirty years before that, it was only about 5%. Another huge change has been financial. Before 1998 CE, higher education in the UK was completely free for UK citizens. Since then, tuition fees have been introduced. Most students borrow this money from the government.

Despite the high cost, most students choose to study away from home. A recent survey of 17,000 students revealed that only 7% wanted to stay at home while they studied for their degree. Of course for most young people, living away from home means borrowing even more money from the government. So why don't students choose to avoid debt by staying at home, where they don't have to pay rent? Most of them say that they want to move to the University their Choice, rather than the nearest one. Another strong motive is the desire to live in a new culture.

- 1) In England, two changes have taken place in higher education. Write these two changes down.
- 2) Quote the sentence which states how students are able to afford to leave home.
- 3) Find a word in the text which means (money you owe).
- 4) What does the underlined pronoun (they) refer to?
- 5) Quote the sentence which shows that there were no tuition fees in the UK before 1998.

- 7) Living away from home comes up with many advantages. Suggest three possible benefits a person may get while living away from home.
